

THE cleverness with which makers are giving great results with little fur has been taxed to the utmost this season, with decidedly modish results. It is undeniable that the richness of a combination in fur pieces makes for beauty. Velvets or supple satins lend a richness of coloring to the beauty of fur that every woman adores. When beauty at a reasonable price is offered by Dame Fashion, womankind can rejoice and adopt the styles.

Blue velvet is added to the soft gray fox in the large set that spells warmth and beauty. Long ends of the velvet tie the neckpiece in front, and the back shows a velvet collar, over which is placed the foxskin. The muff has a front of fox, the large size depending on shirred velvet that gives the new barrel shape.

In another set pointed fox is combined with plush that is a compelling evidence of the manufacturer's art, for it gives an appearance of fur without a high price. The straight flat scarf has a point of fur ending in the animal's head. The muff is mainly of plush, two strips of fox edging the square sides. Large bows of black ribbon finish the set with an accepted trimming.

Panne velvet makes another fox set doubly beautiful. The point worthy of noting is the arrangement of the pelts. One skin makes the muff, the length of the fur running from side to side, which is unusual. The neckpiece has a circular cut that fits around the throat. It, too, is made of one skin. The velvet bows add to the effect.

A big showing is given by a clever arrangement of fur in black fox that has a satin backing. The large muff has all the fur on view, hanging down to the knees. It is backed with satin and can be rolled over the arms to form a barrel muff, if the rug style be not to the wearer's liking. Satin and chiffon help the neckpiece to make a stylish and becoming show. In this model the price is noticeably decreased—and who of us is indifferent to that tempting consideration?—and the owner is the gainer.

Velvet and sable strips are allied in a clever money-saving style in the model that is rich and yet within the reach of many. Three sable pelts are placed in vertical strips, alternating with puffs of brown velvet. The narrow neckpiece is made wider by a fold of velvet on each side. Any fur of this type can be made up after this model.

Squirrel-chinchilla—a new fur—is used for the broad collar that gives ample protection to the shoulders. Gray velvet forms the long ends that are further decorated with braid ornaments. The soft muff has insets of puffed velvet and is large and unstiffened, folding over the forearms in beautiful lines.

Don't decry the fashions of today because of their luxurious character. Look closely at the best models to discover the method employed by makers. You will find that ingenuity is a big factor in the designing. A big showing with little fur is yours, if you will profit by the stunning models before you.

GOVERNMENT

Deliberately Holds Back the

Naval Debate

MAY CHANGE POLICY

Lafontaine Replies to Pelletier's Speech

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—It was an unexpected, but none the less dramatic retreat. The Borden Dreadnought will have to be done only upon the sturdy British manner, who are to be called upon to maintain them, if they are to make a better showing under fire than did their authors in Parliament this afternoon. Yesterday's debate, led by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, set the tempo for the Liberal's very enthusiastic, and the disposition distinctly to their liking. The strong, patriotic and self-respecting policy, by contrast, by the Old Guard, has on a remarkable grip on the imagination and enthusiasm of the Canadian people. So marked has been the effect that the Government's policy has been tastefully left back from its position today.

The original programme was hurriedly deserted, and in the desire to save the situation, the Government determined to retard its own legislation for the time being. Instead of following

Hon. Mr. Graham by Hon. George E. Foster,

as he had been able to do, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was last night put up as the only one to deal with the adjustment of the debate. It was agreed that he should continue for one hour to-day, and follow by Sir

Michael Clark, of Red Deer, Alta., the eloquent British-born Imperialist, who is supported by the constitutional and British standpoint.

It was already suspected that the withdrawal of Mr. Foster from the speaking line was made with a view of removing the impending controversy of his being followed by Dr. Clark. But

Mr. Laurier's speech was so good that he talked and talked, and continuing his finally stated intention of speaking for an hour and a half.

Meaning the Ministerial benches were practically deserted, and the Government supporters were reduced to a small number of any interest in the long and tedious dissertation of the Postmaster-General.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET.
Not far from Boston is located the well known place, the "Old Oaken Bucket." Every time the place is visited many new traditions are told concerning the famous old bucket, about which people have been singing these many years. Having a drop of the sparkling water, between shallow waters of the familiar refrain, "The Old Oaken Bucket," it is remarkable that the bucket, to have the charm brought by learning that the original "Old Oaken Bucket" was carried off by someone shortly after the well known poem became famous, the youngest daughter of Samuel Woodworth, the author, used to tell about the real old oaken bucket, and of the same which came over the household on the day it disappeared. There is no other water bucket in the world so credited in homely genuine romance as this one. Here the golden goblets of royalty and the treasure chests of the Crusaders have never availed the universal and popular interest attained by the "old oaken bucket" that hung in the well.

SEAGULLS EAT CHICKENS.
While holidaying at a northern old world resort where seagulls are to be seen in very large numbers, I was told a story that to me seemed almost incredible (says a correspondent). I was told that this summer the seagulls were off to for food, with the result that these birds swarmed around the fork-houses, and not content with feasting on the fowl's food, visited the hen-houses and helped themselves to the chickens. Four out of five broods being carried off by these birds. I was told again and again, and I was told with fowls, but never before heard that these birds were responsible for the disappearance of the chicks.

Your Case Isn't Likely to be Worse, and Can Be Cured Quickly by Nervine.

Here is The Proof.
"After being an enthusiastic user of Nervine for some time, I feel it my duty to tell you personally what your wonderful preparation has done for me. I was afflicted with rheumatism and heart trouble, tried scores of so-called remedies, consulted for weeks and months with Toronto's most eminent physicians, but derived only slight benefit."

It is a friend insisted on my using Nervine, and to my surprise a vigorous rubbing of the powerful liniment speedily relieved the stiffness in my joints and reduced the stiffness in my joints. I was able to walk and move, and was permanently cured. I am now perfectly well, and for three years have had no rheumatism or heart trouble. I have families where no other medicine but Nervine is kept—it is so useful in minor ailments like neuralgia, rheumatism, colds, coughs, lumbago, and sciatica. I feel Nervine my "Life Saver" and urge all to try its merit."

Of course only her daughter can afford to have such a treasure, but the wealth can hope to obtain original pieces of the silver, but the pieces of it are made by modern silversmiths. The silver made by hand, with its wonderful color that the machine-made pieces can attain, is the desire of women who really love silver. The silver in the possession of a tea table. Then there is the Colonial china in its many quaint designs and adorable shapes, all of its expensive, but so delightful that it is well worth investment. And the glass for such tea table should be the fine old cut glass, just a little cut, not heavy and glaring like the modern pieces. If you want to have a tea table in the English type there is some new china in the old Chinese pattern, white with black bands, which there are rare gilded decorations. This china harmonizes with the old furniture and the black ground china and brocades that are now so fashionable. With it the Sheffield plates pieces are in perfect accord. Get older try not to cry Winter tears. Bull them till A piece of pork, adding a and sugar. Turn put them in dish or bean pot, with the pork saddle, and bake them until done.

PUT OF FRYING FISH.
Put of frying fish crisp and
hot. Not any gold away Where but feet of silver run—
Dream the dreams when day is done;
Here's far better tribute won Than the barren moon bestows;
None in all its beauteous glow,
Not the slumberous, but the wailful rose.

While the bulletin show optimism, it is believed the Ambassador will do so in a severe crisis condition.
